United Way Sets Ford $1.6 Million Goal

Star Staff Writer The 1977 Lincoln-Lancaster United Way campaign goal will be exactly $1.6 million, an increase of 6.8% over last year's total contributions of $1,498,100.

The $1.6 million figure was approved Thursday by the United Way board.

Jack Wells, chairman of the 1976 cámpaign, called the $1.6 mullion figure 'not a realistic goal but a very ambitious goal." He said that major contributors and businessmen are 'guardedly optimistic about next year's campaign.' Pushed Over Top The 1976 campaign had fallen short of its goal until an a nonymous $13,000 contribution pushed it over the top. Lee Liggett will head up the 1977 campaign which will be officially launched this fall.

The goal is some $25,000 short of the $1,624,945 in total allocations recommended by United Way's agency relations division following budget hearings with the 26 individual

Anticipating the board would lean toward the lower, $1.6 million figure, the agency relations division alerted individual agencies that the first items to be cut would be proposed staff additions and youth and recreation programs. Increases Deferred

The tentative allocations accepted by the United Way board reflect 'no cutback in service but deferral in increases in service," said Glenn Smith, agency relations chairman.

The decision to cut youth and recreation programs first was the result of program priorities informally agreed to by budget team volunteers.

Accompanying the tentative allocations were agency relations recommendations made to individual agencies.

Only one, the recommendation that the Boy Scouts, Girl Soouts and Camp Fire Girls "should work toward producing continuing income to become self-supporting through (their) users over the next 10 years" drew the ire of a few board members.

military construction bill.

The House had voted to reject the veto of the military construction bill that Ford said would interfere with his power to close unneeded U.S. military bases.

But the Senate vote on overriding was 51 to 42, or 11 short of the required two-thirds majority.

President Ford issued a statement saying he was "keenly disappointed" by the congressional action in enacting the public works

Ford said Congress is not sufficiently concerned about "the risks of double digit inflation," adding: "It would rather create $4 billion worth of temporary, governmentfunded jobs than let those same dollars go to work in the private sector to produce real, rewarding, lasting jobs."

The House vote on the public service jobs bill was 310 to 96, or 39 more than the required two-thirds. Only 15 Democrats voted to sustain the veto, while 57 Republicans joined 253 Democrats in voting to override. The Senate voted 73 to 24 Wednesday to override, so the House action was final. To override the military construction veto. the House voted 270 to 131, two more than the required two-thirds, with 228 Democrats and 42 Republicans voting to override, 37 Democrats and 94 Republicans to sustain.

Political charges and countercharges marked the House debate on the jobs bill, with emphasis on Ford's two-year record of 53 vetoes. This was the ninth veto to be overriden.

The legislation authorizes $2 billion for grants to state and local government for public works that can be started within 90 days. It also authorizes $1.25 billion in grants for state and local governments in high unemployment areas to maintain essential services and avoid lavoffs.

Supporters said the bill will create 200,000 jobs while protecting another 90,000 state and local government jobs.

The bill also authorizes $700 million for waste water treatment works. Actual funds for all the programs depend on votes later on ap-

Declaring that "the House has clearly shown it recognizes the need to relieve unemployment," Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill of Massachusetts credited Democratic congressional initiatives for the improvement up to now in the economy.

"This bill is crucial to maintain the momentum," he said.

Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona said that "this bill is designed mainly to attract votes in November.'

"It is a cruel hoax to ask people to put faith in a program like this," he said, arguing that the jobs created, even if they reached the 300,-000 figure cited by Democrats, would be only

But House Speaker Carl Albert said Democrats were leading the way out of "the Ford recession."

He said Republican leaders like Rhodes and Ford, who also headed House Republicans before becoming vice president, "have a distinguished 20-year record of leading Republicans to defeat at the polls - and they are doing it today."

When Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., said Ford

presidents did in 70 years, Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, replied that Ford's veto record "is not a reflection on the administration, but an indictment of the fiscal irresponsibility of Congress."

Mayor Kenneth A. Gibson of Newark, N.J., president of the United States Conference of Mayors, praised the congressional action in overriding Ford's veto of the jobs bill.

"We see this as a major victory for all Americans because it provides immediate fiscal relief to hard pressed central cities, serves as a vehicle for generating needed jobs, and thereby reduces national levels of unemployment," Gibson said in a statement.

Commendation also came from organized labor. Robert A. Georgine, president of the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department, said that over 200,000 jobs will be created in the construction industry, where 17 per cent of the work force are unemployed.

Albert Shanker, president of the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, said the bill "offers a program to break the cycle of recession, unemployment and further

The defense claimed that Edelman was drunk, stood in front of the pickup and refused to get out of the way when Rice accidentally hit him.

A jury of eleven women and one man broke off deliberations Thursday night on the fate of Booker Leon Robinson, accused of fatally shooting another man on Feb. 2.

Robinson is charged with first degree murder in the death of Archie Lee Robinson, also of Omaha, in a parking lot at 1635 F St. The two are not related.

Booker testified Wednesday that he and Archie were 'like brothers" and the gun discharged accidentally during the course of an argument between the two men.

Deputy Public Defender Paul Conley told the jurors in closing statements Thursday that Booker's hands were shaking as he held the gun on Archie with one hand and tried to open a car trunk with the other. The gun went off. Booker didn't realize that the gun had fired until several friends began screaming, Conley said.

Alliance Plan Bows To East Lincoln Group

By GORDON WINTERS Star Staff Writer

East Lincoln residents musded aside a street improvement plan favored by the Lincoln Alliance at a meeting Thursday night of the Goals and Policies Committee.

They won acceptance of their own plan, considerably more ambitious than the alliance plan, by a margin of 30 to 30 votes. Hasty counts varied immediately after the meeting. The action came at a meeting in which participants showed as much sest as a football

Alliance Plan Bows To East Lincoln Group

By GORDON WINTERS Star Staff Writer

East Lincoln residents muscled aside a street improvement plan favored by the Lincoln Alliance at a meeting Thursday night of the Goals and Policies Committee.

They won acceptance of their own plan, considerably more ambitious than the alliance plan, by a margin of 20 to 30 votes. Hasty counts varied immediately after the meeting The action came at a meeting in which participants showed as much zest as a football crowd by yelling, cheering and clapping. The meeting was especially flavored by a deep-voiced shout from the rear, apparently from an east Lincoln resident.

"Sit down, you dummy," was one bellow. "Justice and liberty prevail," was another. At the start of one roll call vote, Jack Siegman of the Lincoln Alliance went through the crowd with the message: "On this one we

At the same time, Roger Shulz of the Greater East Side Association was pacing the sidelines of the East High Auditorium with his arms held aloft and his thumbs pointed down.

The plan being forwarded to the County-City Common for action Monday is an amended version of a plan approved earlier by the "Official's Committee" comprised of Mayor Helen Boosalis, County Board Chairman Bruce Hamilton and Deputy State Road Engineer Charles Nutter.

However, it deletes two major projects, one - an extension of Coddington between the Denton and Pleasant Hill roads and the other a proposed widening of 84th St. Alliance spokesmen tried, during turns at two microphones at the front of the auditorium, to portray the east Lincoln residents as being concerned only with their own neighborhoods and ignoring the rest. Paulding Smith, wearing a yellow sign identifying him as a supporter of "Sketch 7", the alliance plan, told the crowd of about 350 that "84th don't give a darn as long as nobody comes near them. Attorney Doug German, an alliance supporter, urged the east Lincoln residents to consider that other neighborhoods in Lincoln had concerns that were similar to their own. Shulz, leader of the east Lincoln group, however, attempted to denigrate the manner in which the alliance plan was developed.

He said the plan was drawn up by a semicircle of people sitting around a blackboard. "Someone would say, who wants the road in?', if no one did it was taken out," Shulz

Bruce Bergquist of 2824 Dudley, however, objected to Shulz's statement as a caricature of what took place and contended the process allowed careful consideration of each point. Alliance supporter Jack Siegman attempted at the start of the meeting to have a roll call vote on the adoption of the alliance plan. Debate was extended on a standing vote. Then Shulz made his motion which supplanted the alliance plan with the best east Lincoln plan. Thereafter followed attempts to cut down the scope of the plan by amendment.

In all, four lengthy roll call votes, each lasting about 15 to 20 minutes, were taken.

Around 230 votes were cast. All deletions were Participation was open to any interested local citizen. The only qualification was attendance at one of the earlier Goals and Policies meeting at which the street improvement plans were discussed.

Five hundred sixty-nine people were eligible to vote at the meeting Thursday night, according to members of the City-County Planning Department, but apparently about half of those citizens did not participate in the voting.

After action by the County-City Common, the plan goes to the City-County Planning Commission. Then work will begin on adopting a rough timetable for the projects in the plan at that point.

Final authority for adoption of the street improvement plan, a portion of the Comprehensive Plan, rests on the City Council and County

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The Rhodesian government has launched an international recruiting drive for foreigners to join the Rhodesian army to fight black nationalist guerrillas. Modern Explorers Reveal Long-Held Amazon Secrets

The New York Eimes

Belem, Brazil - During the last five years, a group of 150 Brazilian geologists, botanists, agronomists and technicians has discovered more about the vast Amazon jungles than the sum total of four centuries of exploration.

Their methods may not have met the approval of Gen. Candido Rondon and the other great explorers who ventured up the Amazon River and its tributaries, sometimes for months and years at a time. Nor is it likely that legends and short stories will be written about these new explorers

But none of the old-time adventurers could hold a candle to the modern experts who have mapped in detail the last great wilderness on

Funded by a $30 million grant from the -Brazilian government, the venture, known as the Radam Project, has discovered a 400-mile long river in the western Amazon that had been hidden by the dense foliage and almost continuous cloud

The Radam Project has mapped out scores of geological anomalies which might indicate the presence of valuable mineral deposits.

The new explorers also have exploded the th of the Amazon as a basically flat rain forest. In fact, lowlands extend over only about 20% of the area — mostly along the Amazon River and its Inbutaries. The rest is hilly terrain, often giving way to mountain ranges.

People always thought the Amazon was flat because the old-time explorers stuck to the rivers," said Otto Bittencourt Netto, the supervisor of operations for the Radam Project. "They rarely ventured much further than the river banks because the jungles are so impenetrable."

The basic instrument of the recent discoveries has been a single Caravelle jet mounted with an apparatus known as a "side-look radar."

Traveling at an altitude of almost 40,000 feet and at speeds of more than 500 miles an hour, the plane's radar equipment photographs a continuous band of Amazon terrain about 23 miles project extended to cover the entire country.

The novel advantage of the radar images is that they can penetrate the thickest clouds and vegetation. The shades on the black-and-white photographs produced by the radar equipment indicate different levels of terrain, possible mineral deposits, varying density of vegetation, and hidden streams and rivers.

Once an area is photographed, the Radam Project experts study the radar images and single out which zones appear to have particular interest because of geological formations, density of rain forests or possible soil content.

A crater-like formation, which would show up as a hollow circle in the photographs, might contain large nonferrous mineral deposits. A lightly wooded area would indicate soil of a different fertility from other Amazon areas. A team of four or five experts - including a geologist, a botanist and other technicians - is transported by helicopter to make on-site inspections. During 24-hour stopovers, often in areas never before visited by human beings, the experts collect mineral, soil and plant samples.

More than 3,000 helicopter trips have been made, and 30 people have lost their lives - either during crashes or because they were simply never found again after being dropped off at a site.

'We were once dropped ou in what out to be a battle zone between two Indian tribes," said Bittencourt Netto. "We were talking to members of one tribe, and another Indian group swooped into the camp to kidnap the women because they had run out of wives."

In the third stage of the project, the samples collected during the helicopter trips are analyzed in laboratories. The results have been published in a nine-volume series which includes maps showing possibilities for mineral exploration, timber extraction and agricultural and livestock development. In some cases, Radam Project teams suggest that large zones be set aside for ecological purposes because of their unusual flora and fauna.

According to the Radam Project, the value of commercially recoverable timber in the Amazon runs into the tens of billions of dollars. Although much of the jungle soil has only a thin fertile layer, there are still millions of acres that will support livestock grazing fields or manioc, corn and rice plantations.

Woods also owns the rock quarry in Alameda County where 26 school children and their bus driver were held captive for 18 hours in a buried moving van. They escaped last Friday by digging their way to freedom.

Alameda County Sheriff Tom Houchins said officials wanted to question Woods' son, 24-year-old Authorities refused to say why they believed the men, who had been arrested there once before, would be in the area now. The men pleaded guilty in October 1974 to a misdemeanor charge of auto tampering after they were caught removing a few parts from an abandoned car.

Order Stays 3 Death Sentences

WASHINGTON (AP) -Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell on Thursday stayed the imposition of death sentences in three states until the court can hear a request that it reconsider its decision upholding capital punishment.

In a brief order Powell stayed executions in Georgia, Texas and Florida cases until the full court can consider a petition for a rehearing of the cases.

either in a regular session this fall or in a special session.

Although Powell's order dealt specifically with only three condemned men - one in each of the three states - a court spokesman said it is expected that every state having capital punishment laws will delay executions until the petition is considered by the full court.

An Associated Press survey The petition would have to be earlier this month showed 630

The court spokesman said the petition for rehearing was filed a week ago and that Powell ruled that no damage would be done by staying the executions until it could be considered.

The death penalty in the three cases was upheld in court decisions July 2, although the court at the same time struck down capital punishment laws in some other states.

LES Another Wart?

Is the Lincoln Electric System, like Lincoln General Hospital, another wart on the hide of city government or a vital and functioning part of that government? More and more, we are coming to the conclusion that it is more in the nature of a wart.

It is time, at least, to seriously consider whether this $74.5 million annual business ought to be cut off of city government and established as a separate entity. Once again, such a proposal would not be without opponents and they would have some strong arguments but the practical aspects of the situation are becoming more and more senseless.

Presently, LES is administered by chief officer Walt Canney and an appointed advisory board. The final authority in matters of rates and annual budgeting rests with the elected City Council and the

We rather doubt that citizens have the protection they may think they have with the present setup. The plain truth is that the mayor and City Council cannot be expected to have the time and expertise to make sure that LES is operated as efficiently and effectively as possible.

As a matter of fact, the arrangement is one that contains the potential for all kinds of abuse and inefficiency, although it is not our opinion that this is now happening. But potentially, LES is in a position to get away

Mobile Home Neighbors

The day may come when mobile Lincoln would produce a tremendous hue homes can be located anywhere in the city, according to Star economic columnist Jane Bryant Quinn. The reason is that mobile home owners across the country are winning law-suits against the exclusionary zoning laws cities have enacted against

In Lincoln, for instance, no one could put a mobile home in any traditional neighborhood. Mobile homes may go only in places specifically designated for them.

That means they go into mobile home courts, and often on property that is rented or leased by the owner. The courts, generally speaking, are not found in prime residential areas, but rather, are permitted on land not considered to be tops for regular residential purposes.

This means that, except in rural areas where the city zoning laws do not apply, the mobile home owner has a tough time of it if he wants to buy a lot and put his home

But all that will change if the courts continue to sustain actions brought by mobile home owners seeking to buy a lot where they please and place their home on wheels upon it. No doubt any such effort in council than might be the case under a different arrangement.

with a lot more by snowing the mayor and

Such an arrangement would call for the establishment of LES as a separate governmental entity, on the same order as the Lincoln Airport Authority. The electric utility, presumably, would need no authority to levy taxes as it has never been a taxsupported operation.

Responsibility for the continued publicly owned service operation would rest with an elected board of perhaps seven or nine members. If electric users did not like what LES was doing, they could vote board members out of office as they came up for re-election.

Such a system, in some ways, calls for a little more confidence in LES than does the present system but our entire representative form of government rests upon a strong element of confidence. Such a system would, on the other hand, offer the potential of better long-range planning and more orderly operation of the utility.

As it now stands, LES must always be prepared for second guessing and Monday morning quarterbacking by the city government, not really an environment for stability. We are not ready to adopt whole-hog the idea of LES as an independent governmental entity but we throw the idea out as one whose time may have come.

and cry in the neighborhood involved. However, not only does this very real possibility exist, but it might not be all bad. As we have all come to know, a lot of the exclusionary rules we lived with in the past have been struck down by the courts. Also, this development has served the cause of equal justice for all and done little damage to anyone

> Additionally, modern mobile homes can be very attractive and, when properly installed on a lot, be an asset to their area. There is no question that such homes are a growing answer to the skyrocketing price of traditional real estate.

> When and if mobille homes ever find their way into traditional Lincoln neighborhoods, it won't be all bad. The truth of the matter is that who your neighbor is is far more important than the kind of physical structure he lives in. Just about any home can be kept attractive if the people living in it want to keep it that way. To the contrary, otherwise fine homes can become a distinct liability to neighbors if not properly maintained.

> As it always has been, it is the human element that makes the big difference in

Not that the subject hasn't been given serious attention. But no president has yet concluded it was worth shocking tradition by doing something practical to improve the means of administering a complex society.

As a matter of fact, Truman once suggested we should appoint a secretary of foreign affairs — which was Jefferson's first title - and let him do the traveling.

I later raised the idea with Nixon's first secretary of state, William Rogers, who claimed: "It just wouldn't work. Other nations wouldn't accept it. If the secretary of state himself didn't attend a conference, they

If a man of sufficient stature to represent the United States abroad in negotiations as secretary for foreign affairs is shown to be capable of truly representing the president, the secretary of state, still No. 1 in the cabinet, will have more time to devise basic policy and explain it to Congress. One of the recent weaknesses of U.S. diplomatic efforts has been the gap between White House and congressional opinions.

With a vice president doubling as a prime minister, and a secretary of state staying at home and directing a secretary of foreign affairs in negotiations, surely the U.S.A. would be in better shape to administer its power and influence.

The Democratic presidential candidate has asked a task force to prepare a position paper incorporating his views on criminal justice. It is now in draft form, labeled "Not for Dissemination," with a final version weeks away.

Shadow Of The Gunmen

LONDON - Last March in New York, sibility for security, the British role could start Provisional IRA leader, Frank Stagg, who had starved himself to death in a British prison. Afterwards, an honor guard wearing black berets, the IRA symbol, marched to a rally where a large crowd was addressed by other New York politicians: Paul O'Dwyer, Mario Biaggi. Robert Abrams. It was hard to believe then that those political leaders did not know the true nature of the cause they were implicitly honoring. But if any was so ignorant, he should have learned something — to his shame — from the latest episode of cowardly violence in Ireland.

The murder of the British ambassador in Dublin is of a piece with the hundreds of other Irish political killings these last few years.

The IRA cause is a united Ireland - that is, cutting Northern Ireland's link to Britain and making it a part of the republic. The means to that end is persuading the British to leave. Paul O'Dwyer has said: "All Ireland's problems would cease if Britain got out of the country." **☆ ☆ ☆

A million Protestants live in Northern Ireland, half that many Catholics. Most Protestants feel the tie to the British crown very deeply, and a large number fear and hate Roman Catholics. These people are a reality, historical and present, with which any government in London must deal.

If British troops pulled out tomorrow, one early result could be a Protestant pogrom against the Catholic minority in Belfast. That, at least, is a possibility that concerns British ministers. It is a price the IRA may be willing to see paid, but it is not one that any imaginable British politician wants on his record.

The crucial point is that the Republic of Ireland is in full agreement with what Britain is trying to do. There is no support in the Irish government for trying to create a United Ireland by force: none whatever. The voters of the republic have decisively and repeatedly rejected the IRA program.

Of course the IRA does not care what the voters think. Conor Cruise O'Brien, of the Dublin government, puts it that the IRA tradition "has claimed to set itself above democracy and the humdrum results of democracy."

Ireland suffers from her mythic history, with its romanticization of violence and revolution. That meant something in its time, say 1916. But it is one thing to hear Sean O'Casey's characters talk about the beauty of it all and another to contemplate the innocent maimed and dead today.

Proposed Niobrara Dam ...

Lincoln, Neb. Much has been written in opposition to the proposed Norden Dam on the Niobrara River. I would like to point out two additional facts: (1) the actual vote in the last referendum on the project, and (2) the unfair and undemocratic method of the vote. The actual vote in the reclamation district was 1,185 "yes"; 1.113 "no." Of that, the resident farmers, including the farm townships and the town of Atkinson voted 534 "no"; 361 "yes." O'Neill city voters, anticipating benefits from construction revenue, swung the vote to "yes" by a mere 72 votes. Is such a small margin really justification for spending hundreds of millions of tax dollars, especially when the direct beneficiaries of the irrigation water, the farmers, did not give it a majority

Regarding the method of the vote, only those who lived in the reclamation district were allowed to vote as the project planning progressed. The people who will suffer the major losses live outside the district and were not allowed to vote. Theirs is the land which would be flooded by the dam; theirs are the ranches which would be cut up and split apart by the hundreds of miles of canals and laterals. Those living downstream from the dam would suffer also from reduced and uncertain remaining stream flows part of the time and floods at other times when heavy run-off upstream requires large water releases to preserve the dam. All of these people who would also be affected by the dam could NOT vote. Is this a democratic way to take a vote? I thought I lived in America! The tactics of the promoters of this project are deplorable and disgusting. A public cry of outrage should be heard. If this type of action is allowed to take place now, it will be repeated in the future and no land-owner will be safe from exploitation.

What Price Unity?

Lincoln, Neb. It is evident as seen by the outcome of several presidential primaries that there is a significant number of Democrats who do not support the Carter ticket. The importance lies not in whether our reasons be that of a political or personal philosophy; the importance lies in what we intend to do as voters in this presidential election. One thing we do not intend to do is stay home on election day in November. We hold with the Jeffersonian principle of active participation in our democratic elective process

Careful consideration has been given to the three leading candidates. President Ford has done little more than be a figure-head, presiding over official functions. Jimmy Carter has repeatedly asked us to "trust him." We are still asking, "Why?" Former Governor Reagan has shown by his record that he need not ask - he has our trust and our support.

There has been a great deal of emphasis on unity in the Democratic Party. We feel that the price of the unity has become too high. Party loyalty is needed; but we cannot overlook who is leading our party. Thus if one cannot find a candidate in his party, he should be honest and open-minded enough to look elsewhere. We urge voters to check Reagan's record; we do not feel they will be disappointed.

Lincoln, Neb. In reference to The Star's front page story of July 13 on the Council's voting for beer gardens in Lincoln - how long ago was the population of Lincoln between 2,000 and 5,000 people? I don't know, either, but it's close to 184,000 now. Things do never used to smoke, but now that's common. Some people must like to live in the past. I have yet to see anyone forcing another person to watch someone enjoying what he likes to do. If you don't like what you see, don't look.

Women wore long dress, but that has changed. Women

From now on, maybe anyone who wants to purchase beer should buy it at night and sneak home. Turn out all the lights, lock the doors, pull the shades and curtains so no one can possibly see, and have a beer. This almost sounds like the commission of a serious crime, with the police coming.

If a person drinks Coke constantly, should he do the same? Come, ladies. This is 1976, not 1876. We have cars and trucks, not covered wagons and horses.

LES Another Wart?

Is the Lincoln Electric System, like Lincoln General Hospital, another wart on the hide of city government or a vital and functioning part of that government? More and more, we are coming to the conclusion that it is more in the nature of a wart.

It is time, at least, to seriously consider whether this $74.5 million annual business ought to be cut off of city government and established as a separate entity. Once again, such a proposal would not be without opponents and they would have some strong arguments but the practical aspects of the situation are becoming more and more senseless.

Presently, LES is administered by chief officer Walt Canney and an appointed advisory board. The final authority in matters of rates and annual budgeting rests with the elected City Council and the mayor

We rather doubt that citizens have the protection they may think they have with the present setup. The plain truth is that the mayor and City Council cannot be expected to have the time and expertise to make sure that LES is operated as efficiently and effectively as possible.

As a matter of fact, the arrangement is one that contains the potential for all kinds of abuse and inefficiency, although it is not our opinion that this is now happening. But potentially, LES is in a position to get away with a lot more by snowing the mayor and council than might be the case under a rest with an elected board of perhaps seven board members out of office as they came a little more confidence in LES than does the present system but our entire represenstrong element of confidence. Such a system would, on the other hand, offer the more orderly operation of the utility.

As it now stands. LES must always be prepared for second guessing and Monday morning quarterbacking by the city government, not really an environment for stability. We are not ready to adopt whole-hog the idea of LES as an independent governmental entity but we throw the idea out as one whose time may have come.

Mobile Home Neighbors

The day may come when mobile homes can be located anywhere in the city, according to Star economic columnist Jane Bryant Quinn. The reason is that mobile home owners across the country are winning law-suits against the exclusionary zoning laws cities have enacted against them.

In Lincoln, for instance, no one could put a mobile home in any traditional neighborhood. Mobile homes may go only in places specifically designated for them.

That means they go into mobile home courts, and often on property that is rented or leased by the owner. The courts, generally speaking, are not found in prime residential areas, but rather, are permitted on land not considered to be tops for regular residential purposes.

This means that, except in rural areas where the city zoning laws do not apply, the mobile home owner has a tough time of it if he wants to buy a lot and put his home

But all that will change if the courts continue to sustain actions brought by mobile home owners seeking to buy a lot where they please and place their home on wheels upon it. No doubt any such effort in Lincoln would produce a tremendous hue and cry in the neighborhood involved.

However, not only does this very real possibility exist, but it might not be all bad. As we have all come to know, a lot of the exclusionary rules we lived with in the past have been struck down by the courts. Also, this development has served the cause of equal justice for all and done little damage

Additionally, modern mobile homes can be very attractive and, when properly installed on a lot, be an asset to their area. There is no question that such homes are a growing answer to the skyrocketing price of traditional real estate.

When and if mobille homes ever find their way into traditional Lincoln neighborhoods, it won't be all bad. The truth of the matter is that who your neighbor is is far more important than the kind of physical structure he lives in. Just about any home can be kept attractive if the people living in it want to keep it that way. To the contrary, otherwise fine homes can become a distinct liability to neighbors if not properly maintained.

As it always has been, it is the human element that makes the big difference in different arrangement.

Such an arrangement would call for the establishment of LES as a separate governmental entity, on the same order as the Lincoln Airport Authority. The electric utility, presumably, would need no authority to levy taxes as it has never been a taxsupported operation.

Responsibility for the continued publicly owned service operation would or nine members. If electric users did not like what LES was doing, they could vote up for re-election.

Such a system, in some ways, calls for tative form of government rests upon a potential of better long-range planning and

Some years ago I discussed this with Clark Clifford, one of the veteran Democratic barons, who said: "There should be a constitutional amendment to Truman tried to work out a system like this when he had Phil Jessup as ambassador-atlarge. As a matter of fact, Truman once suggested we should appoint a secretary of foreign affairs - which was Jefferson's first title - and let him do the traveling. "The Dutch actually had two foreign ministers for a while, right after the war. Now in England (1962) you have Lord Home in the House of Lords and

ROGERS ... didn't think two secretaries would be acceptable

(Ted) Heath in the Commons and also handling the Common Market negotiations, so there is a kind of divided labor."

公 公 公

I later raised the idea with Nixon's first secretary of state, William Rogers, who claimed: "It just wouldn't work. Other nations wouldn't accept it. If the secretary of state himself didn't attend a conference, they would refuse to send their own foreign ministers.' But the facts belie this view

When Rogers told me that (1972), Henry Kissinger was KISSINGER outranked Rogers, even before official status . . .

If a man of sufficient stature to represent the United States abroad in negotiations as secretary for foreign affairs is shown to be capable of truly representing the president, the secretary of state, still No. 1 in the cabinet, will have more time to devise basic policy and explain it to Congress. One of the recent weaknesses of U.S. diplomatic efforts has been the gap between White House and congressional opinions.

With a vice president doubling as a prime minister, and a secretary of state staying at home and directing a secretary of foreign affairs in negotiations, surely the U.S.A. would be in better shape to administer its power and influence.

WASHINGTON - Jimmy Carter will advocate a new form of law and order, with more emphasis on prosecuting crooked business executives and corrupt government officials. The Democratic presidential candidate has asked a task force to prepare a position paper incorporating his views on criminal justice. It is now in draft form, labeled "Not for Dissemination," with a final version weeks away.

Eight years ago, Richard Nixon made law and order the main theme of his campaign. He subsequently put John Mitchell and Richard Kleindienst in charge of law and order at the Justice Department. Both have now been convicted of violating the laws they had sworn to up-

From the first, they were more enthusiastic about enforcing the laws against malefaction than malfeasance. They were quick, for example, to prosecute overzealous protesters who, in the name of peace, violated the peace.

But the Nixon prosecutors were slower to enforce the laws against white-collar crimes. They ignored the laws against perjury, for example, when their own people found it expedient to

* * * This left the impression that there was a different justice for the rich and the poor, for the powerful and the weak. Carter will offer to put criminal justice back in balance by prosecuting businessmen and bureaucrats, congressmen and judges who violate the laws.

He would divert millions of dollars to cracking down on crimes "which cause great harm and property loss but which are pursued inadequately." The confidential draft adds pointedly: "These crimes would include business crimes and government corruption."

The draft, prepared by Washington attorney Arnold Sagalyn, accuses both the Johnson and Nixon administrations of wasting much of the money the federal government spent to fight crime.

"Anyone who promises to banish crime with a few federal dollars dooms such a program to failure," the paper declares. "The goal is misleading, naive and unrealistic."

A staggering $4.4 billion has been spent by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration

(LEAA) to help local police primarily to underfunded porforces. We have shown in a series of columns how most of this money has gone for such wasteful items as Dick Tracy weapons that don't work and luxury limousines for deputy sheriffs.

公 公 公

Carter would divert at least half of the LEAA funds to coping with crime in "our most dense living areas and . . . other areas where violent crimes and burglary present the most danger to citizens."

Some anti-crime funds should go into welfare, jobs, schooling, mental health and other programs that can prevent crime, the study urges. It adds: "Both the revenue-sharing funds and the federally controlled funds should be devoted tions of criminal justice, for example, prosecution, defense and court systems." The study cautions, "The finest research products of recent years tell us much more about what does not work than what does work." To study the crime problem, the Carter task force recommends establishing novel semi-public, semi-private 'corporations for crime and criminal research.

Motorcycle Safety— What Can Be Done?

Star Staff Writer

On June 28, Charles Levy, 33, an experienced motorcyclist of nearly two decades, rode his week-old motorcycle into a Lincoln intersection.

He normally wore a helmet but this afternoon he left it behind. At the intersection, a car made a left turn in front of him, causing the vehicles to collide. Levy was thrown from the cycle, killed by the Authorities who investigated the accident said a helmet wouldn't have helped.

Two other persons died that week in cycle mishaps: a 23-year-old student nurse and a 16-

Because of the growing number of motorcycle riders, cycle accidents will continue - nearly 6,000 motorcycles were registered last year in Lincoln and more than 5,000 already have been

But can the severity of cycle accidents be diminished or numbers of accidents reduced? Laws requiring safety equipment have proved ludicrous. Nebraska courts killed state helmet laws after a bitter debate. Local training programs have met with meager participation. Local motorcycle knowledgeables decided, at a recent Nebraska Safety Council meeting, on an ultimate answer: It's what's in a motorcyclist's head, not what's on it. In response, the conference sanctioned the formation of a "task force" to study the problem. The committee's emphasis will be on education and licensing standards rather than safety equipment, said Jay Kucera, director of driver improvement for the safety council.

When the study is completed, recommendations will be made to the Legislature and the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

"They don't like to be told to do something," Kucera said describing many cyclists as nonconformists. "What many of them have told me is that they wouldn't mind tougher licensing laws."

Two current regulations will be under particular scrutiny, the conference decided.

One will seek legislative action on the motorcycle learner's permit law, which requires a 'licensed motorist" to be a passenger on the cycle with an in-training rider. The passenger need not be licensed for motorcycles. "Riding with a passenger is the last thing

The second area involves on-street testing during the state license examination. A cyclist taking the test must ride around a city block. If he returns unharmed he passes. Also, the tester may know little about motorcycles, another flaw to be challenged, Kucera said.

Kucera's ideas include a test that will tax the rider's ability.

Lincoln attorney Charles Noren, who defended helmet law opponents, said cyclists will welcome the rule changes.

"Dealers were the ones to put through the law requiring separate licensing for motor-cyclists," Noren said, "as a result of statistical information . . . that showed the higher percentage of motorcyclists have accidents in the first few months of operation.

'Consequently, if they require a license, and if they upgrade the licensing standards so that one has to demonstrate proficiency, it would reduce the number of accidents that happen in that first six months," Noren contended.

'Unfortunately, we're still struggling with the licensing standards and particularly with the tests that the Department of Motor Vehicles conducts, he said.

Motor Vehicles Director James Pearson said he knows of the licensing problems and is seeking advice on the issue.

"A problem is being able to observe the cyclist (during testing) and we're going to improve on that," Pearson said. "I don't know how, but we're going to."

The Motor Vehicles Department can change licensing requirements because the law only specifies the department's authority. It doesn't make other rules. The learners permit law, though, was spawned in the Legislature. Pearson said he attended the safety conference but, since then, has had little input from motorcyclists. He said he's open to suggestions. "So far we haven't heard anything," Pearson said. "But we're exploring things on our own." Money is the greatest hurdle, he said. Currently, there are about 60 testers to more than 250,000 motorists in Nebraska.

There are training courses underway at Southeast Nebraska technical Community College. Kucera is working with trained cyclists and others to teach the course which has been meeting Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Another course is planned for August.

Motorcycle Safety— What Can Be Done?

On June 28, Charles Levy, 33, an experienced motorcyclist of nearly two decades, rode his week-old motorcycle into a Lincoln intersection. He normally wore a helmet but this after-said a helmet wouldn't have helped. Two other persons died that week in cycle mishaps: a 23-year-old student nurse and a 16-year-old youth. Because of the growing number of motorcycle riders, cycle accidents will continue - nearly 6,000 motorcycles were registered last year in Lincoln and more than 5,000 already have been registered this year. But can the severity of cycle accidents be diminished or numbers of accidents reduced?

Laws requiring safety equipment have proved ludicrous. Nebraska courts killed state helmet laws after a bitter debate.

Local training programs have met with meager participation

Local motorcycle knowledgeables decided, at a recent Nebraska Safety Council meeting, on an ultimate answer:

It's what's in a motorcyclist's head, not what's on it.

In response, the conference sanctioned the formation of a "task force" to study the problem.

The committee's emphasis will be on education and licensing standards rather than safety equipment, said Jay Kucera, director of driver improvement for the safety council.

When the study is completed, recommendations will be made to the Legislature and the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

"They don't like to be told to do something," Kucera said describing many cyclists as nonconformists. "What many of them have told me is that they wouldn't mind tougher licensing laws."

Two current regulations will be under particular scrutiny, the conference decided.

One will seek legislative action on the motorcycle learner's permit law, which requires a "licensed motorist" to be a passenger on the cycle with an in-training rider. The passenger need

West led a diamond and South started to look for a way to avoid losing two club tricks. Had West remained silent during the bidding, declarer would probably have failed in his mission. But after the double, declarer quite properly assumed that this method of play would fail. Accordingly, he played for a squeeze. After winning the diamond lead and ruffing a diamond, he led four rounds of trumps, ending in his hand and producing this position:

Review Panel Finds Army Engineers' Papio Plan Unsatisfactory

Omaha (AP) — A four-member review panel concluded Thursday that building reservoir dams or channelizing Papillion Creek streams are not satisfactory ways of minimizing flood damage or preventing loss of life along the Papio.

The report was made public at a meeting of the Douglas County Board.

The review panel was selected from a list of professionals submitted to the Omaha mayor, Nebraska governor, Omaha city officials and Washington and Douglas County officials by the American Society of Civil Engineers.

The effect of the report on completion of the project, estimated to cost about $100 million, is not known, but opponents will try to use it in an effort to persuade Congress to scale down the scope of the Army Corps of Engineers project.

The review group, made up of three college engineering professors and a consultant, also said a counterproposal by opponents of the Papio dams is unsatisfactory. That proposal called for widening and improving the Papio channel.

The review panel said no more dams should be built until the project is restudied. The group hired to make the independent study of the project criticized the data which it said the Corps of Engineers used as the basis for its program.

The solution, the report said, is better management of the Papio flood plain and minimizing construction in the area drained by the creek and its tributaries.

The report specifically recommended against building two dams, No. 3A in the Bennington area, and No. 10 on Thomas Creek, a Papio tributary.

Of the two dams now built, the report said Dam 11 is serving its purpose of flood control along the Papio. But Dam 16 has "a minimal impact," although it offers recreational opportunities, the The corps originally proposed 20 dams, but has re-evaluated the project and said not that many can be economically justified. Corps officials said they will announce new recommendations on the dams in August. The review report said the corps' reservoir program actually poses a danger to residents near the creek. It may instill in them a false sense of security that there will be no flooding, once the dams are built, one panelist said. The panelists are Dr. Ray Linsley, Stanford University; Raphael Kazmann, Louisiana State University; Kenneth Wright, a private engineer from Denver; and Dr. Merwin Dougal, Iowa State Univer-

The report said the corps failed to take into account any rainfall or stream flow information collected since 1966 in preparing the flood control program. The report said more current information should be used because there has been considerable construction in the Papio watershed and that development could change the runoff volume and speed after a heavy rain.

A spokesman for the Corps of Engineers said Thursday that the corps still believes some dams are an essential flood control measure in the Papio Valley and provide the most economical protection of life and property.

The spokesman said thee are some points of agreement between the corps and the review group. Elkhorn farmer-businessman Bob Gottsch, head of the Papio Valley Preservation Association and a prime mover in the effort to get the project reviewed, said the results of the panel's review "completely vindicated" the association's claims in its three-year battle against the Corps of Engineers'

Gottsch said his group and other opponents set out to make sure that the corps and others would not "waste" considerable funds and natural resources on such a "questionable" project.

Although the county board is not committed to abide by the review panel's findings, it is expected to

"We're going to keep hopefully about 18,000 acres of good farm land in production for the next generation," Gottsch said. He said the panel's reviewwas very significant because "this is the first time a government agency has been called to task" to justify its efforts before an impartial, nongovernmental review panel.

"Congress was completely misled in appropriating funds for the project," Gottsch said, and he believes the people responsible for the misleading reports should be prosecuted.

Non-Competition Clause Linked To Departure Of Two Doctors

SYRACUSE, Neb. (AP)-Two of this Otoe County town's five practicing physicians apparently will be leaving in the near future because of a non-competition clause in a contract with two of the town's older doctors.

Drs. Dean Thomson and Larry Wilson took a paid advertisement in the Thursday editions of the Syracuse Journal-Democrat to tell local residents they will no longer be able to offer medical care in the community.

The two are working at The Medical Center here along with two other physicians; Drs. H. F. Gately and C. J. Fromanack.

When Thomson and Wilson came here about two years ago, they signed a contract worth Gately and Fromanack.

The contract, which expires Aug. 1, contains a non-competition clause.

Under the clause, Thomson and Wilson agreed that upon expiration of the contract, they would not set up new practices within five miles of Syracuse, unless they stay with The Medical

However, both have apparently decided to leave the center. Both have declined comment, and have not announced future plans.

Gately has said the two younger doctors are welcome to stay on if they want to or to work under a production basis.

However, Gately said Thomson and Wilson must abide by the non-competitive clause if they decide to leave the center. If Thomson and Gately decide to set up practices outside the five-mile limit, Gately said he and Fromanac will not oppose granting privileges to practice at the Good Samaritan Home here and at the Syracuse hospital. Gately said he and Fromanac will make efforts to get another doctor to begin a practice here. A delegation of local residents representing a number of organizations has met several times to

'We simply have no plans to enter the Nebraska market during 1976," said Don Taylor,

No way, Taylor said. "We'll be shipping beer to Montana in September for the first time." he said. "The next step is a test market in Spokane, Wash, a brewery-run distributorship.'

Beyond 1976, Taylor offered this possibility:

"We've begun to fit states to the number of barrels of beer we have available. If Nebraska sales sion.

Although Coors production was expanded by a third in the Golden plant this year, sales have outpaced supply.

Dozens of new states are in the Coors competition. The beer is already sold in 12 states west of the Rockies. Rather than following an older policy of gradual expansion east, ali states are now being studied, Taylor

His office continues to process and file applications from Nebraskans who want to be wholesale beer distributors.

Mrs. Anderson Sees Attempt To Create 'Political Dynasty'

Sen. Roman Hruska is attempting to "create a political dynasty" in Nebraska from his own mold, Democratic congressional candidate Pauline Anderson of Lincoln said Thursday.

Review Panel Finds Army Engineers' Papio Plan Unsatisfactory

Omaha (AP) - A four-member review panel concluded Thursday that building reservoir dams or channelizing Papillion Creek streams are not satisfactory ways of minimizing flood damage or preventing loss of life along the Papio.

The report was made public at a meeting of the Douglas County Board.

The review panel was selected from a list of professionals submitted to the Omaha mayor, Nebraska governor, Omaha city officials and Washington and Douglas County officials by the American Society of Civil Engineers.

The effect of the report on completion of the project, estimated to cost about $100 million, is not known, but opponents will try to use it in an effort to persuade Congress to scale down the scope of the Army Corps of Engineers project.

The review group, made up of three college engineering professors and a consultant, also said a counterproposal by opponents of the Papio dams is unsatisfactory. That proposal called for widening and improving the Papio channel.

The review panel said no more dams should be built until the project is restudied.

The group hired to make the independent study of the project criticized the data which it said the Corps of Engineers used as the basis for its program.

The solution, the report said, is better manage-ment of the Papio flood plain and minimizing construction in the area drained by the creek and its

The report specifically recommended against building two dams, No. 3A in the Bennington area, and No. 10 on Thomas Creek, a Papio tributary.

Of the two dams now built, the report said Dam 11 is serving its purpose of flood control along the Papio. But Dam 16 has "a minimal impact," although it offers recreational opportunities, the

The corps originally proposed 20 dams, but has re-evaluated the project and said not that many can be economically justified.

Corps officials said they will announce new recommendations on the dams in August.

The review report said the corps' reservoir program actually poses a danger to residents near the creek. It may instill in them a false sense of security that there will be no flooding, once the dams are built, one panelist said.

The panelists are Dr. Ray Linsley, Stanford University; Raphael Kazmann, Louisiana State University; Kenneth Wright, a private engineer from Denver; and Dr. Merwin Dougal, Iowa State Univershould be used because there has been considerable construction in the Papio watershed and that development could change the runoff volume and speed after a heavy rain.

The report said the corps failed to take into account any rainfall or stream flow information collected since 1966 in preparing the flood control

A spokesman for the Corps of Engineers said Thursday that the corps still believes some dams are an essential flood control measure in the Papio Valley and provide the most economical protection of life and property.

The spokesman said thee are some points of agreement between the corps and the review group.

Elkhorn farmer-businessman Bob Gottsch, head of the Papio Valley Preservation Association and a prime mover in the effort to get the project reviewed, said the results of the panel's review "completely vindicated" the association's claims in its three-year battle against the Corps of Engineers' out to make sure that the corps and others would not "waste" considerable funds and natural resources on such a "questionable" project.

Although the county board is not committed to abide by the review panel's findings, it is expected to

"We're going to keep hopefully about 18,000 acres of good farm land in production for the next generation," Gottsch said. He said the panel's review was very significant because "this is the first time a government agency has been called to task" to justify its efforts before an impartial, nongovernmental review panel.

"Congress was completely misled in appropriating funds for the project," Gottsch said, and he believes the people responsible for the misleading reports should be prosecuted.

Non-Competition Clause Linked To Departure Of Two Doctors

SYRACUSE, Neb. (AP)-Two of this Otoe County town's five practicing physicians apparently will be leaving in the near future because of a non-competition clause in a contract with two of the town's older doctors.

Drs. Dean Thomson and Larry Wilson took a paid advertisement in the Thursday editions of the Syracuse Journal-Democrat to tell local residents they will no longer be able to offer medical care in the community

The two are working at The Medical Center here along with two other physicians; Drs. H. F. Gately and C. J. Fromanack.

When Thomson and Wilson came here about two years ago, they signed a contract worth Gately and Fromanack.

The contract, which expires Aug. 1, contains a non-competition clause

Under the clause, Thomson and Wilson agreed that upon expiration of the contract, they would not set up new practices within five miles of

Syracuse, unless they stay with The Medical

However, both have apparently decided to leave the center. Both have declined comment, and have not announced future plans.

Gately has said the two younger doctors are welcome to stay on if they want to or to work under a production basis.

However, Gately said Thomson and Wilson must abide by the non-competitive clause if they decide to leave the center.

If Thomson and Gately decide to set up practices outside the five-mile limit, Gately said he and Fromanac will not oppose granting privileges to practice at the Good Samaritan Home here and at the Syracuse hospital.

Gately said he and Fromanac will make efforts to get another doctor to begin a practice here.

A delegation of local residents representing a number of organizations has met several times to discuss ways to get the matter resolved.

Handicapped Businessman Santin Dies

Grand Island (AP) - Richard Santin, who along with his late brother Robert founded a thriving two-way communications business despite the fact that both were afflicted with muscular dystrophy from birth, died Wednesday in a hospital

Richard, 37, operated the business alone after his brother's death in November, 1974. He was also a member of the national and the governor's committees on the employment of the handicapped.

Born and raised in Fullerton, the two brothers were graduated from Fullerton High School and went on to study electronics before opening their business.

In 1971, the two were named the Year," and received a special citation from then President Richard M. Nixon during ceremonies in Washington, D.C.

Nebraska To Be Coor-less In 1976

Despite what may have been heard, Coors connoisseurs in Nebraska are in for another drought year in 1976.

"We simply have no plans to enter the Nebraska market during 1976," said Don Taylor, director of sales in Golden, Colo.

Legislation allowing breweries to divide the state into exclusive distributor areas became law last week amid predictions that the brew would be on sale in Nebraska in August.

No way, Taylor said. "We'll be shipping beer to Montana in September for the first time." he said. "The next step is a test market in Spokane, Wash., a brewery-run distributorship.

Beyond 1976, Taylor offered this possibility:

We've begun to fit states to have available. If Nebraska sales projections would coincide with our supply situation, we'd have a

Although Coors production was expanded by a third in the Golden plant this year, sales have outpaced supply.

Dozens of new states are in the Coors competition. The beer is already sold in 12 states west of the Rockies. Rather than following an older policy of gradual expansion east, all states are now being studied, Taylor

His office continues to process and file applications from Nebraskans who want to be wholesale beer distributors.

'We've had some really fine applicants," Taylor said, but adding flatly, "nobody has an inside track; we're a long way the number of barrels of beer we from making that kind of deci-

Omaha Woman Accepts Term As Legislator

Saying she was "excited, proud and very, very, happy,' Mrs. Bernice Labedz of Omaha accepted an appointment Thursday to the Nebraska Legislature.

Gov. J. James Exon named her to fill the unexpired term of Omaha Sen. Eugene T. Mahoney. The long-time solon has resigned to become director of the Game and Parks Commis-

"There were many reasons I selected Mrs. Labedz over other qualified individuals," Exon said, "and one was that I believe we need more women in the legislature.'

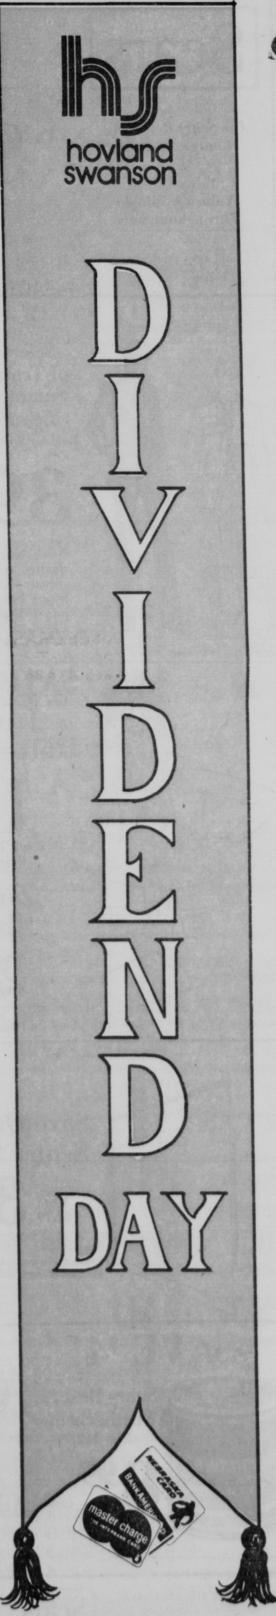

Mrs. Labedz, 56, will be the second woman in the current Unicameral. The other is Lincoln Sen. Shirley Marsh.

Mrs. Labedz is the mother of four and works as executive secretary to Omaha Mayor Edward Zorinsky.

She said she would file petitions to seek election in her own right in the November general election. Her appointment runs through Dec. 31.

$953,752 In Back Pay Owed To Nebraskans Kansas City (AP) - The U.S. The department said in Iowa,

Labor Dept. reported Thursday that investigations during the year ended June 30 uncovered $953,752 in back pay owed to 5,-021 Nebraska workers. The department's Kansas City office said those workers' rights under employment standards laws had been violated. Of the totals discovered, the department said, $475,681 actually was recovered for 4,353 workers, most of it through voluntary payments by employers.

Most of the difference between the amount found due by investigators and the amount actually paid back still is being sought from employers through negotiations or litigation.

Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska recovery of back pay was up 44.3% to $3,649,160, compared to the previous year. The department said the back pay owed Nebraska workers included $278,736 owed 2,964 workers under minimum wage legislation, $415,011 owed to 2,-248 workers under overtime provisions, $75,860 owed 44 workers under equal pay provisions and $184,145 owed 19 workers under age discrimination provisions.

In addition, the department found 326 violations of child labor laws. These violations are subject to civil penalties of up to $1,000 for each minor illegally employed.

Mrs. Anderson Sees Attempt To Create 'Political Dynasty'

Sen. Roman Hruska is attempting to "create a political dynasty" in Nebraska from his own mold, Democratic congressional candidate Pauline Anderson of Lincoln said Thursday

"After many years in the Senate, he has now handpicked the man he wants to succeed him - that is, John Y. McCollister," Mrs. Anderson said in a statement.

Her 1st District opponent, Rep. Charles Thone, is next in Roman L. Hruska.'

Thone is a former administrative assistant to Hruska.

'Now it is widely rumored that this protege of the retiring senators will be maneuvered into the other Nebraska senatorial slot in 1978," Mrs. Anderson said.

"What we are witnessing is an effort to create a political dynasty . . . the grave danger of a sort of dynastic succession in Nebraska that begins with

"It took me about six weeks to develop this system which involves pulling air through small ports in the bottom with a fan mounted on the roof of the building," he said.

Young also has devised a better method of getting wet corn out of wet moisture storage buildings which, he said, is inexpensive to install in existing storage facilities.

Many farmers had trouble figuring out another gadget that looked like a rocking chair in a box. It was a system of fans designed to distribute grain

The system blows air from the downhill side of the combine forcing the grain to spread out across the sieve so it doesn't blow out with the straw.

Farmers also looked over irrigation systems, new methods of hauling the giant hay bales many farmers are now using and discussed crops, rains and the lack of it, and prices.

A delegation of Iowa farmers from near Onawa was seeking information on irrigation equipment from University of Nebraska irrigation experts. Farmers visiting the hog complex were disappointed to learn the hogs are off limits because of disease problems. Visitors to empty facilities were asked to step into a pan of disinfectant material before entering the swine area.

Wet conditions prevented planned demonstrations of some grain and hay harvesting equipment, but other than that, University of Nebraska officials seemed pleased with the day.

Power Plant Hearing Set For July 27

Grand Island (AP) - A hearing has been set for July 27 in Lincoln to determine whether the village of Doniphan and affected landowners may protest construction of a proposed Grand Island-Hastings power plant before the Nebraska Power Review Board.

Grand Island City Atty. Earl Ahlschwede confirmed Thursday that the city had filed a request with the board, asking review of the status of Doniphan interests in protesting the application.

Ahlschwede said the motion contends Doniphan is not an alternate power supplier for either city, does not pay utility rates to either city, and that neither city plans to serve Doniphan or the individual parties with power.

In determining whether to grant a construction permit, the board also must consider the need and feasibility of the plant, Ahlschwede said. The Great Plains Power Agency's application to construct a 150 megawatt coal-fired generation plant on a site near Doniphan had been scheduled for a review by the board on Wednesday. However, a delay in the hearing was requested by Doniphan's attorney because of a conflict.

The new review hearing date on the construction application has been set for Aug. 10.

Power Plant Hearing Set For July 27

Grand Island (AP) - A hearing has been set for July 27 in Lincoln to determine whether the village of Doniphan and affected landowners may protest construction of a proposed Grand Island-Hastings power plant before the Nebraska Power Review Board.

Grand Island City Atty. Earl Ahlschwede confirmed Thursday that the city had filed a request with the board, asking review of the status of Doniphan interests in protesting the application.

Ahlschwede said the motion contends Doniphan is not an alternate power supplier for either city, does not pay utility rates to either city, and that neither city plans to serve Doniphan or the individual parties with power.

In determining whether to grant a construction permit, the board also must consider the need and feasibility of the plant, Ahlschwede said.

The Great Plains Power Agency's application to construct a 150 megawatt coal-fired generation plant on a site near Doniphan had been scheduled for a review by the board on Wednesday. However, a delay in the hearing was requested by Doniphan's attorney because of a conflict.

The new review hearing date on the construction application has been set for Aug. 10.

Board Continues To Trim, Squeeze And Cut Budget

By GRACIA Meandrew Star Staff Writer

Emotions ride high when Laneaster County commissioners meet with country department heads to discuss budget cuts. Thursday was no exception.

After grueling budget sessions which lasted well into the evening Wednesday, the county commissioners got a late start Thursday, but painstakingly made some headway on three proposed department budgets.

The first to meet the commissioners head to head was County Engineer Marvin Nuernberger, who came with three budgets in hand, ready to defend them to the penny.

Reminding the commissioners that the county highway fund has had nearly the same budget (approximately $1% million) since 1969, Nuemberger said, "With inflation costs, increased wages and more responsibilities, when we try to stay within this amount we have achieved something.'

Nuemberger told the board that he now has nine fewer employes than he had in 1973, but has been able to meet an inc reased workload.

But, Commissioner Jan Gauger warned Nuernberger that cuts in every county department were imminent and that there probably would not be funds available in any department for new employes.

The budget request of County Attorney Ron Lahners came before the board for a second time Thursday.

Earlier the three commissioners refused his request for new office equipment, program funds and a private telephone line, all to the tune of more than $75,000.

But during Thursday's session, promote six deputy county attorneys. The board indicated. however, that those receiving the raises probably would have to meet minimum experience or length - of - employment qualifications.

The addition brought the budget proposal for the county attorney's office from $554,684 to approximately $562,000. Lahners originally requested $ 630,000.

The Lancaster County Mental Health Center received bad news Thursday — they have to slice more than $16,000 from their proposed budget. The commissioners suggested that employe parking provided by the agency at a cost of $10,530 be one of the first items to go. Reductions in staff development programs could comprise the balance of cut, they said.

Board Refuses To Hear Complaint Against Police The Police Review Board has cuffed in the jail for six hours, decided by default not to pursue a complaint lodged against some Lincoln police officers. The board was deadlocked 3-3 on whether to investigate further the complaint of Allan E. Stibal, 640 S. 12th St. Stibal claimed that police used excessive force when they arrested him in May after a seault and battery and resisting answering a disturbance call. Stibal contended he was hand-restricting circulation in his hands.

For a formal public hearing to be held on any citizen's complaint, four members of the seven-member board must agree to hold that hearing.

Stibal was charged with arrest following a fight with his wife in their front yard.

Circo To Play Schwartzkopf In Golf Final

remembers well her last golf Schwartzkopf.

Leading by one hole with one to play, Circo watched as her opponent holed out a chip shot on the 18th green four years ago at Hastings' Lochland Country Club to force a sudden death playoff in the first round of the state amateur tournament.

Schwartzkopf not only won the match on the fourth extra hole, but went on to capture her fourth state match play title.

Now, Circo has her chance to erase some of the memories.

Circo and Schwartzkopf were identical 2 and 1 winners over 17th. respective opponents Val Skinner of North Platte and Omaha's Lynn Merwald.

"In a way I wanted Lynn (Merwald) to win since we're both from the same club (Happy Hollow)," Circo admitted. "But, I wanted another shot at Christie, too."

Both players, going to the 17th hole before ending the matches, watched comeback efforts fail for their opponents.

Merwald, four holes down to Schwartzkopf after No. 12, won the next three holes to close within one after a chip from just off the green went into the hole for a birdie on 15.

But the momentum shifted on No. 16 when Schwartzkopf won the hole with a bogey four as Merwald missed a four-foot putt.

The real break came when she missed that putt, Schwartzkopf said. "I really expected her to make it. Had she made it, she would have maintained the momentum from the last three holes.

Sports Ender Swims To Fourth Gold MONTREAL (AP) — Nadia Comaneci, Braun of West Germany won the individual 2 and more perfect performances for two more gymnastic gold medals Thursday and East German swimmer Kornelia Ender won her third and fourth gold medals within 25 minutes in an action-filled evening at the Summer Olympics.

Russia's Nellie Kim also posted a 10-point performance and won two gold medals in the final women's gymnastics competition.

Brian Goodell of Mission Viejo, Calif., won the men's 400-meter freestyle swimming gold medal in world-record time and the American men's team won its ninth gold out of nine events by taking the 400 medley relay in another worldrecord clocking.

Thus the big stories of these Olympics continued to be the 14-year-old Romanian, the American men swimmers and the East German women swimmers.

Great Britain won the modern pentathlon team gold medal and Poland's Janucz Pyciak-Peciak took the individual pentathlon gold. Russia became the first country in 24 years to sweep all three medals in Olympic sabre fencing. Gregor

Bulgaria's Yordan Mitkov won the gold in Olympic middleweight weightlifting with a total lift of 737 pounds. Soviet Vartan Militosian was second and East Germany's Peter Wenzel third.

In more of the off-the-field problems that have beset these Games, the Russian team faced accusations of a fix attempt in diving Thursday and was briefly threatened with disciplinary action after forfeiting a water polo game and threatening to pull out of the sport.

Tom Gompf, the U.S. diving team manager, told The Associated Press that Soviet officials had approached him in an attempt to fix the springboard diving event by trading votes of judges. Gompf denied later that the Russians had suggested a fix, but The AP stuck by its original report and said it had, on Gompf's request, withheld the name of the Soviet official involved.

In the water polo flap, the Russians forfeited a game to Cuba. Dr. Harold Henning, president of the swimming federation, said the Soviets were withdrawing apparently because they decided they could not finish in the top six.

scheduled games, and the federation dropped threatened disciplinary action against them.

East Germany's Miss Ender won two swimming gold medals within 25 minutes Thursday night. She took the 100 butterfly in a world-record 1:00.13. Teammate Andrea Pollack was second and Wendy Boglioli of Ocean City, N. J., won the bronze. Camille Wright of New Albany, Ind., was fourth.

Then Miss Ender came back and set another world record of 1:59.26 in the 200 freestyle. Shirley Babashoff of Fountain Valley, Calif., was second and Enith Brigitha of the Netherlands was third. Jennifer Hooker of Bloomington, Ind., was sixth. Miss Ender, 19, earlier had won the 100 freestyle and was on the 400 medley relay team.

After eight events, the East German women had won seven gold medals, four silver and one bronze. Their performance is exceeded only by that of the American men, who have nine gold medals, six silver and three bronze after nine events

Brian Goodell, of Mission Viejo, Calif., set a world record of 3:51.93 in the men's 400 freestyle. Tim Shaw of Long Beach, Calif., won the silver and Russian Vladimir Raskatov, the bronze. It was Goodeli's second gold of the Games. Tuesday night he won the men's 1,500 freestyle in world-record time.

Boxer Sugar Ray Leonard gave the United States a 2-0 lead in battles with Soviet boxers Thursday and the strong Cuban team continued its march toward a medals harvest as preliminaries continued in that sport. Leonard, of Palmer Park, Md., overwhelmed Russian Valery Limasov, a European champion, in scoring a decision in the second round of the 140-pound class.

Olga Korbut, the darling of the 1972 Munich Games, won only one individual medal-a silver in the balance beam. But she got the warmest ovation of the night from the overflow crowd of more than 16,000 at The Forum.

Miss Comaneci's performance capped a week in which she emerged as an athletic and

Deshler Officials Confident Despite Previous Problems

By MARK GORDON

Star Sports Writer The Desbler quarterhorse races have had an interesting start, to say the least. The first week, a lack of horses sorced cancelation of one night's program. The second week, one night's program was

There's not much that can be done about inclement weather, but Deshler officials think they have solved the lack of horses. We have between 175 and 180 right the Nebraska State Racing Commission spent opening night, (July 8) at the Deshler races. He, however, was willing to explain the lack of horses.

"They (Deshler) got some unfavorable publicity from some sources who said the track wasn't going to open," Fickler said.

"I talked with Virgil Bond (Deshler racing secretary). He couldn't be there the first week. He's got a large following and now that he's there, I'm sure he can guarantee they'll be enough horses.

"They started out with only 120 horses whereas Broken Bow (the first stop on the two-track Nebruska quarterhorse circuit) and 230 horses," Fickler continued.

an average of 1,500 patrons, who wagered an average of $38,000, attended the first four programs. That's somewhat higher than the averages at Broken Bow, which recently completed its second year of operation.

Zucker is confident of higher figures. His track has already made an improvement a chain link fence was put in front of the grandstand enabling patrons to watch the races up close - a la the thoroughbred tracks in Nebraska.

"I think the handle's going to go up, too," Zucker noted. "We put out real, bonest past performances in the program. The PPs are complete. People can gain confidence when they know all the horse's races are in.

"Of course, if a horse is a first-time starter, there's not much we can do about it." he added.

With no additional program cancellations, Deshler will run six more nights. Although Zucker said he has not contacted Broken Bow officials regarding their 1977 requests, he said his Board will seek between 18 and 20 days for next year.

"I'd like to start so we can finish when Ak-Sar-Ben does (generally mid-July)," Zucker said. "We're close to Lincoln so we don't want to run when they do (late July and August). Maybe Broken Bow will race after us. I beard some talk that they run a little too early this year." Fickler is confident the Deshler races can succeed.

"They have people who are interested in racing and who have attended races before. Because the number of families in the area with racing interests is high, the attendance is higher than I expected," he said. "I have confidence the per capita betting average will double by next year. Having more horses will mean more horsemen and horsemen are pretty good bettors."

Fickler noted the possibility of switching racing days as a possible boost to Nebraska quarterborne racing.

"I don't believe Thursday-Friday-Saturday will make money as for as quarterhorses are concerned," Fickler said. "If they can get Saturday-Sunday with good programs and secure enough horses, they'll succeed.

"I think there's room for quarterhomes, but the number of days utilized for them is probably much more limited than for thoroughbreds," be added.

Zucker, meanwhile, is hopeful the first year of the Deshler races will be profitable. "If things go all right the last two weeks, we'll probably make a little money. Not a great deal, but we'll be in the black," be predicted.

Races are slated for Thursday, Priday and Saturday this week and next week.

Ender Swims To Fourth Gold

MONTREAL (AP) - Nadia Comaneci, Romania's little miss perfection, turned in two more perfect performances for two more gymnastic gold medals Thursday and East German swimmer Kornelia Ender won her third and fourth gold medals within 25 minutes in an action-filled evening at the Summer Olympics.

Russia's Nellie Kim also posted a 10-point performance and won two gold medals in the final women's gymnastics competition.

Brian Goodell of Mission Viejo, Calif., won the men's 400-meter freestyle swimming gold medal in world-record time and the American men's team won its ninth gold out of nine events by taking the 400 medley relay in another worldrecord clocking.

Thus the big stories of these Olympics continued to be the 14-year-old Romanian, the American men swimmers and the East German women swimmers.

Great Britain won the modern pentathlon team gold medal and Poland's Janucz Pyciak-Peciak took the individual pentathlon gold. Russia became the first country in 24 years to sweep all three medals in Olympic sabre fencing. Gregor

Bulgaria's Yordan Mitkov won the gold in Olympic middleweight weightlifting with a total lift of 737 pounds. Soviet Vartan Militosian was second and East Germany's Peter Wenzel third.

In more of the off-the-field problems that have beset these Games, the Russian team faced accusations of a fix attempt in diving Thursday and was briefly threatened with disciplinary action after forfeiting a water polo game and threatening to pull out of the sport.

Tom Gompf, the U.S. diving team manager, told The Associated Press that Soviet officials had approached him in an attempt to fix the springboard diving event by trading votes of judges. Gompf denied later that the Russians had suggested a fix, but The AP stuck by its original report and said it had, on Gompf's request, withheld the name of the Soviet official involved.

In the water polo flap, the Russians forfeited a game to Cuba. Dr. Harold Henning, president of the swimming federation, said the Soviets were withdrawing apparently because they decided they could not finish in the top six.

The federation met with Soviet officials, the Russians promised to play the rest of their scheduled games, and the federation dropped threatened disciplinary action against them.

Deshler Officials Confident Despite Previous Problems

By MARK GORDON

Star Sports Writer The Deshler quarterhorse races have had an interesting start, to say the least.

The first week, a lack of horses forced cancelation of one night's program. The second week, one night's program was rained out.

There's not much that can be done about inclement weather, but Deshler officials think they have solved the lack of horses.

'We have between 175 and 180 right now with 40 or 45 coming this week," explained John Zucker, president of the Thayer County Fair Board. "I think we'll be able to hold nine races a night.

"I'd rather not go into details of why we started out with so few horses," he said.

Jack Fickler, state steward representing the Nebraska State Racing Commission spent opening night, (July 8) at the Deshler races. He, however, was willing to explain the lack of horses.

"They (Deshler) got some unfavorable publicity from some sources who said the track wasn't going to open," Fickler said.

"I talked with Virgil Bond (Deshler racing secretary). He couldn't be there the first week. He's got a large following and now that he's there, I'm sure he can guarantee they'll be enough horses.

"They started out with only 120 horses whereas Broken Bow (the first stop on the two-track Nebraska quarterhorse circuit) had 320 horses," Fickler continued.

Despite the woes of the first two weeks. an average of 1,500 patrons, who wagered an average of $38,000, attended the first four programs. That's somewhat higher than the averages at Broken Bow, which recently completed its second year of operation.

Zucker is confident of higher figures. His track has already made an improvement a chain link fence was put in front of the grandstand enabling patrons to watch the races up close - a la the thoroughbred tracks in Nebraska.

"I think the handle's going to go up, too," Zucker noted. "We put out real, honest past performances in the program. The PPs are complete. People can gain confidence when they know all the horse's races are in. "Of course, if a horse is a first-time starter, there's not much we can do about it," he added.

With no additional program cancellations, Deshler will run six more nights. Although Zucker said he has not contacted Broken Bow officials regarding their 1977 requests, he said his Board will seek between 18 and 20 days for next year.

'I'd like to start so we can finish when Ak-Sar-Ben does (generally mid-July)," Zucker said. "We're close to Lincoln so we don't want to run when they do (late July and August). Maybe Broken Bow will race after us. I heard some talk that they ran a little too early this year." Fickler is confident the Deshler races can succeed.

"They have people who are interested in racing and who have attended races before. Because the number of families in the area with racing interests is high, the attendance is higher than I expected," he said.

"I have confidence the per capita betting average will double by next year. Having more horses will mean more horsemen and horsemen are pretty good bettors."

Fickler noted the possibility of switching racing days as a possible boost to Nebraska quarterhorse racing.

"I don't believe Thursday-Friday-Saturday will make money as far as quarterhorses are concerned," Fickler said. "If they can get Saturday-Sunday with good programs and secure enough horses, they'll succeed.

"I think there's room for quarterhorses, but the number of days utilized for them is probably much more limited than for thoroughbreds," he added.

Zucker, meanwhile, is hopeful the first year of the Deshler races will be profitable. "If things go all right the last two weeks, we'll probably make a little money. Not a great deal, but we'll be in the black," he

Races are slated for Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week and next week. Post time is 7 p.m.

NBA Vote To Clear Merger

Larry O'Brien Expects Vote Soon

· NBA commissioner Larry O'Brien expects the NBA Board of Governors to vote within a few days on a new agreement on how contracts should be offered to rookies, apparently clearing the final obstacle to merger of the NBA and the ABA.

O'Brien said the matter, mostly due to wording problems, will he discussed and is "close to being settled."

In the new wording, it is agreed that if a team and player cannot agree on a long-term contract, the rookie must be offered a oneyear contract with a one-year option clause, which could make him a free agent within two years of entering the league.

Harold Rhoden

Whitehead Oil Co. is proud to announce that Harold Rhoden was selected as the super dealer for the month of June. Rhoden's I-80 66 Service is located on the interchange of I-80 and Hiway 77.

I doubt if there is better interstate service station anywhere. Bus Knight says "Rhoden's 66 Service is as attractive and neat as a well kept

NBA Vote To Clear Merger

Larry O'Brien Expects Vote Soon

NBA commissioner Larry O'Brien expects the NBA Board of Governors to vote within a few days on a new agreement on how contracts should be offered to rookies, apparently clearing the final obstacle to merger of the NBA and the ABA.

O'Brien said the matter, mostly due to wording problems, will be discussed and is "close to being settled."

In the new wording, it is agreed that if a team and player cannot agree on a long-term contract, the rookie must be offered a oneyear contract with a one-year option clause, which could make him a free agent within two years of entering the league.

Other Basketball

At least three members of the 1975-76 Coppin State College basketball team, NAIA championship tournament winners, were academically ineligible during the fall semester, according to a Baltimoire newspaper. The college confirmed that the three failed to make a "C" average but contended that they were academically eligible.

Football

Franklin Mieuli, owner of the Golden State Warriors of the NBA, said he has made a deal to buy the San Francisco 49ers NFL football team with former Mayor Joseph Alioto as his partner.

The NFL Management Council, bargaining agent for the NFL owners, chastised the players' union for its criticism of baseball's accord on a new collective bargaining agreement. The criticism "Hlustrates the depth of the football players union's commitment to turmoil," said Sargent Karch, executive director of the Council. The Detroit Lions have obtained wide receiver J.D. Hill from the Buffalo Bills in exchange for Detroit's No. 1 choice in the 1977 NFL draft.

Hockey

Representatives of the World Hockey Association testified in Congress that they are reducing violence on the ice by cutting down squad sizes in their young league. "We limited the teams to 14 players and two goalies and they can't afford the luxury of carrying an 'assassin' on the bench," said Harrison Vickers, WHA vicepresident.

Al Rollins has been named general manager-coach of the Phoenix Roadrunners of the WHA. The Cleveland franchise in the National Hockey League has been named the Barons, team co-owner Mel Swib said.

Olympics

The Olympic basketball competition is being tainted by some "incredibly inept officiating," according to Puerto Rican coach Tom Nissalke. "I saw the U.S. game against Yugoslavia, and it was unbelievable. There were about 70 fouls and neither team could get into its style of play. The officials just took over," Nissalke said.

Otto Ammermann of Germany rode his stallion Volturnot o the lead, while Britain's Princess Anne, watched by her mother, Queen Elizabeth, finished a respectable seventh despite problems with her horse Goodwill in the first half of the dressage phase of the Olympic equestrian three-day event. Cuba's boxing team, which heavyweight Teofilo Stevenson says is much stronger than the one four years ago, scored two more victories. Light welterweight Andres Aldamas topped Sabahattin Burcu of Turkey in the second round and Rolando Garbey stopped Mongolian Dashniam Olzvoi in the second round of their light middleweight bout.

Sudan joined the lengthy list of African countries boycotting the Olympic Games, but the Sudanese had an extra reason for quitting - nearly half their athletes were disqualified from competing because they weren't properly registered.

Tourney Halted Again By Rains

Beatrice (AP) - Rain forced postponement of the N.B.C. Semi Professional Baseball Tournament here again Thursday.

Tournament Director Dave Koch said rainouts Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday have caused major revisions in the schedule and extra games are necessitated by the regional tournament which begins Aug. 6 at Clarinda, Iowa.

The new schedule calls for three games each on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with the championships to be held on Aug. 1.

and evening gowns. As in 1947, things went wrong. The camera boom went to far and knocked over a tableful of extras. The arc lamps in the catwalks took an interminable amount of time to light. And suddenly it was discovered that Liza's black gown could not be seen against the tuxedos of the Tommy Dorsey band. More delay while operatives scurried to find a white dress.

Martin Scorsese was overseeing all this with a nervous air. He is a small man with black beard, brooding Italian eyes and an intensity that matches his films "Mean Streets," "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore" "Taxi Driver". Marion Brando, who has never worked for him, recently termed Scorsese the best American director.

China Has Big Crop

The irons were picked up with a wooden handle that had prongs fitting into slots on the iron.

Those were the days! Before "spin cycle" and "permanent press." * * *

Property did not increase in value then as they do today in the Golden West. A letter to my grandfather

FELL ASLEEP WHEN YOU TALKED TO THEM."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST ☆ By SIDNEY OWARR ☆ LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22). Home environment commands attention, more so than usual. Family member, perhaps in vacation spirit, wants to purchase luxury item. Fine — If budget will stand if Taurus has something to say — and so does another Libra.

Friday, July 23, 1976 Visit from a very famous actress:
"This divine man has his Mars sitting right on my Venus. It is driving me mad! Is it always this way, this Mars are Vonus being together?" Response. When Mars and Venus conjunct — being within five degrees of each other in a chart comparison — the physical attraction is enormous. All other things being equal, someone's Mars on your Venus can overcome obstacles, make life inheresting, be stimulating and create an aura of sensuality that is rare, valuable, beautiful. 25 Dawn deity 26 Open space

YES'M, I KNOW!

27 Tranquil ARIES (March 21-April 19) What seems like a postponement is merely a delay Know it and refuse to be discouraged You merely are getting rid of superfluous material Individual who understands drame and law could come into your life. 29 Devoutness 39 No longer fashionable 35 Baseball

TAURUS (April 29-May 29): One who makes inancial threat is bluffing. Key is to show that you are not without allies Stand your ground. Your principles, your enthusiasm, creativity stille through—and you will be a winner.

GENIMI (May 21-June 20): Lunar cy-cle is such that persons who seemed aloof will be active in your behalf — it is di-ficult to explain, but enjoy sit Aquerius. Cancer and Leo could be involved. Accent on individuality, courage, forthrightness, creativity.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Highlight versatility. Accept social invitation, Gernini, Segittarius figure prominently, What is apparently a "secret meeting" works in your favor. Someone who shares your interests, beliefs, aspirations will seek in for your. your interests, bet speak up for you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A promise, no matter how sincere, should be backed by something in writing. Know it and act accordingly. If you permit emptions to dominate, year'll saw a steer price. There is no "tree lunch." Stand up and be gracious and be firm and have enough self-esteem to be amply compensated.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Open dialogue with one reparded as "professional superior." There is also room for you at a more elevated position. Know it and do something constructive about it. Gernini is in picture. Another Virgo — and a Segittarian — could also figure prominently.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22-Nov 21): Money situation needs review. Study Libra message. See as is, not through haze of mishful thinking. Perfect techniques Deal with one who has access to hidden crevices, backstage, closed door meetings A clandestine conference could be on agenda — and so is romance. RIP KIRBY SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Go slow — bring priorities into focus. Don't permit yourself to be "talked into" unsavory situation. Message will become crystal-clear Assume responsibility Get organized Find out where you stand in "special relationship."

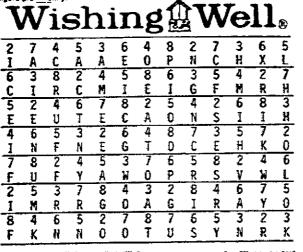

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan, 19): Finish rather than begin — do something about getting better distribution, display Reach beyond what might appear to be a limitation. Remember diet, health resolutions. Much that occurs may be of a secretive nature. Be discreet:

AQUARTUS (Jan 20-Feb 18): Highlight creative approach. Imprint your own style Lee, Virgo could be in high true. Member of opposite sex is drawn to you and its obvious about it. Maintain belance — and sense of humor. Significant change is due.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be practical about building, bidding, costs, payments, collections. Key is to deal with facts, not fantasies. Older family member may be "out of touch." Know it and be more self-reliant, Aquarian figures prominently. Appraisal is in order—become familiar with terms.

IF JULY 23rd IS YOUR SIRTHDAY IF JULY 21s YOUR SIRTHDAY you are an investigative, ware satisfied with superficial explanations. You want reasons, want to know the "why" of events Genini, Virgo betsors play important roles in your life. This is a power year and September is your most significant month of 1975 — a year of business, marriage, organization, more responsability, addition to tamily. You'll be richer!

the recurring issue, now the topic of an interim study resolution, at a 9 a.m. session in the Capitol, Room 2102. Omaha Commissioner James F. Munnelly said if the Legislature should ever pass a law imposing a natural gas regulatory authority, it "should be here," vested in the PSC because it's "more prepared" than others to assume the responsibility.

Federal Power Commission effects on Nebraska rates, the ability of municipalities to carry out rate-making and potential alternate methods to establish those rates. The study findings and any recommendations will be presented for consideration by the 1977 Legislature.

In other PSC business, staff attorney Adrian Fiala reported that Kearney Air Charter Inc. will delay its Kearney-Lincoln-Omaha service planned to begin last Monday, pending commission approval of intrastate operational

Fiala said the firm filed a state application Tuesday, after a misunderstanding about that requirement was cleared up. The airline had announced inauguration of the twice daily service on an inapplicable federal basis, he said.

MONEY AVAILABLE, busines ventures, operating capital, etc. Daie Peterson, 805-987-2819.

The Nebraska Public Service Commission agreed Thursday to testify at a Unicameral hearing Friday regarding natural gas regulation.

But that invited decision only came after PSC members agreed their collective position will be neither for nor against it. Individual commissioners, however, were scarcely neutral.

The Legislature's Public Works Committee will discuss the recurring issue, now the topic of an interim study resolution, at a 9 a.m. session in the Capitol, Room 2102. Omaha Commissioner James F. Munnelly said if the Legislature should ever pass a law imposing a natural gas regulatory authority, it "should be here," vested in the PSC because it's "more prepared" than others to assume the Commissioner Jack Romans of Ord said he would prefer any such authority to reside in the PSC rather than creating a new state agency. Robert Marland of Lincoln agreed, We're the likely agency.

But Commission Chairman Duane Gay of Columbus said he doesn't want to regulate natural gas. Rates are now negotiated between companies and towns.

LR140 proposes to study methods Nebraska municipalities use in arriving at and setting gas rates, the Federal Power Commission effects on Nebraska rates, the ability of municipalities to carry out rate-making and otential alternate methods to establish those rates.

The study findings and any recommendations will be presented for consideration by the 1977 Legislature.

In other PSC business, staff attorney Adrian Fiala reported that Kearney Air Charter Inc. will delay its Kearney-Lincoln-Omaha service planned to begin last Monday, pending commission approval of intrastate operational authority.

Fiala said the firm filed a state application Tuesday, after a misunderstanding about that requirement was cleared up. The airline had announced inauguration of the twice daily service on an inapplicable federal basis, he said.
